These pictures are presented to give Oklahoma citizens and their visitors from other states a bird's-eye view of the beautiful scenery which abounds in our state. Lakes, rivers, springs, falls, natural bridges, picnic areas, state parks, canyons, float trips, pine forests, rock gardens, art and historic museums, salt plains, underground caves, game preserves—all of them are easily reached by good highways in Oklahoma. The four scenes surrounding these lines are in four sections of the state but it only a short drive to visit any one of them. Lake Murray, Lake Spavinaw and the Illinois River are three of the most widely patronized and enjoyed weekend spots in the state, and every visitor always goes back again and again.

An attractive view of the rugged canyon route, a section of State Highway 41 west from the Minco bridge to Binger. Native scenery made accessible by modern roads.

Quannah Parker Lake, one of 25 scenic lakes in the Wichita Mountains near Medicine Park. The lake is 2,455 feet high, which has a paved highway to the top.
